

2007 Sunshine State Survey

"For years, other large states have had the benefit of top-notch annual policy-oriented citizen opinion surveys while Florida has not. Ours is a state that is over-polled when it comes to politics, but under-surveyed on policy and civic engagement. The annual Leadership Florida Sunshine State survey has filled that gap. It has become a critical source of citizen opinions on key issues facing this rapidly changing state--soon to be the nation's third largest. The series of questions asked annually provides academics and leaders in the public and private sectors with much-needed trend line data, while questions on newly-emerging issues give leaders an invaluable baseline look at where a wide cross-section of our state's residents stand on them."
